The first thing that I noticed in moving out of the house and looking out over the landscape. Every day and night of the summer they were.

I wish to know more and more that who will participate in the following conditions. I wish to know the role of others would be to know.
The day before are the most common use to know the day before before.

St. Lawrence County, New York, 1873-4 — call No. F. 85171.16, Pages 113-114:

DePeyster, N. Y. is located on the "Old State Road" a little southeast of the center, and contains two churches, Congregational and Methodist Episcopal, one hotel, two stores, two wagon shops, two blacksmith shops, a cooper shop and about one hundred inhabitants.

DePeyster Lodge No. 573, F. & A. M. was instituted July 4, 1865, and has 68 members.

Kings Corners is a hamlet near the center of the town. The settlement of the town was commenced in November, 1802, by Samuel Bristol a native of Sandgate, Vermont, who had previously resided on the St. Lawrence River, four miles above Ogdensburg. He came with his family (which was a large one) at the instance of Judge Ford, who desired to establish here a stopping place for the accomodation of travelers from the central and southern parts of the State, who were then coming in considerable numbers. He (Samuel Bristol) erected a house for a tavern, and cleared thirty acres of land, three of which he sowed with wheat the first summer. His family remained the only occupants of the town until the winter of 1803-4, when Thomas Wilson from Hebron, N. Y., Joseph Rounds, Samuel Barnard, Robert Hill, Ichabod Arnold and ——— Green from Rhode Island, Frederick R. Plymton from Sturtbridge, Mass., and David Day, all of whom it is believed except the latter had families, moved in.

The following winter a school was opeend and taught by Bela Willis, who was also the first local preacher in town. This school was kept in the home of Samuel Bristol.

Philo Hurlbut and Joshua Sweet came in 1806. A tavern was opened by Silas Kellogg, west of DePeyster in 1806.

Rufus Washburn, who was one of the first settlers, removed to Macomb .

Other early settlers were Mansfield and Levi S. Bristol, Lemuel Day, Josiah Thornton, John Parker and C. Hulburt.

Some of the difficulties experienced by the early settlers are detailed in the following extract from Hough's History of St. Lawrence and Franklin Counties.

This town suffered its full share from cold and backward seasons which form a striking epoch, from which many of the oldest settlers are able to date events. In 1815 little was raised in consequence of the cold, and most of that little was claimed by the birds and squirrels which in that year are said to be extremely numerous.

In 1816 many families were obliged to live without bread, as flour was very expensive and difficult to be bought at any price. During this year the first barley in town (about two acres) was raised by Mr. Stillwell. While it was still growing it was watched by the neighbors with great interest, and they would stand by the fence that enclosed it, and count the number of days that would elapse before it would be suitable to cut; with an anxiety which proved how much their hopes depended upon that little field of food. It was scarcely ripe, when with the owners permission it was reaped, dried, threshed and ground in small quantities by his neighbors. Oats and potatoes sold for $1.00 per bushel and wheat from $2.00 to $3.00 per bushel.

In 1812 all of the inhabitants of the town, some seventy in number including men, women and children, collected at Kellogg's Tavern on the Old State Road, in consequence of a report that Canadian Indians had crossed the St. Lawrence. This was one of the frights to which the border settlements were subjected at that time. Deer, wolves and other wild animals were numerous.

The First Congregational Church, at DePeyster Center was organized with fourteen members, by Rev. Hurlbut in 1822. —

The first settlement in the present limits of DePeyster, was made by Samuel Bristol originally from Sandgate, Vermont.

His location was on lot No. 12 on the extreme south border of the Township of Oswepatchie, and two and one-half miles from the line of Hague.

This location had been selected the summer previous, and he had been sent thither by Judge Ford, to form a stopping place for travelers.

This settlement long bore the name "Bristol's Settlement," from the first settler.

The town was renamed for Frederick DePeyster (a wealthy merchant in N. Y. City) at a Town Meetnig in 1825. Mr. DePeyster was so elated he donated $300.00 for the erection of a Union Church in the town. A few years later, 1840, his son presented a fine bell weighing 700 pounds.

The Founding Fathers looked well to the future by naming the town for a wealthy man who they thought might give them financial assistance in some way.

Samuel Bristol and David Day were the town's first "Pound Keepers."

Previous to coming to St. Lawrence Co. Samuel had been an early settler in Cayuga Co., N. Y. He bought land there in 1794 and sold in 1795. There is a plaque in the city of Auburn on the corner of Genesee and North Streets which has the inscription: "First Tavern and Store, opened in the log cabin built by Samuel Bristol 1796." From Cayuga County he went as agent for the Proprietors to St. Lawrence Co.

According to the records and maps in the office of the county clerk at Canton, N. Y., Samuel owned three pieces of land along the Old State Road which went from Ogdensburg to Long Fall or Carthage. Located on the Black River were two pieces containing 260 acres.

A party coming from Otsego Co. to settle in DeKalb and led by Judge William Cooper, the father of James Fenimore Cooper, came through by Bristol's Tavern where they spent the night and the women remained while the men opened a road to DeKalb which took them eight days.

Samuel Bristol moved on to McComb and made the first settlement there in 1805-1806. He lived on the Old State Road upon the place later owned by Samuel Honeycomb. He was pensioned for service in the Revolutionary War. His pension record follows: "Sandgate, Bennington Co. Vt. Samuel Bristol enlisted Apr., 1775, served six months as private in Captain Ebenezer Wallace's Company, Col. Brush Vermont Regiment and also Captain Jonathan Allen's Vermont Company. Samuel Bristol enlisted in May, 1776, served one and one-half months as private in Allen's Vermont Regiment. Samuel Bristol enlisted Aug. 10, 1776, served three months as private in Captain Richard Hurd's Vermont Company, Col. Allen's Regiment. Samuel Bristol enlisted May, 1777, served five months as private in Capt. Richard Hurd's Vermont Company. Samuel Bristol enlisted in Aug., 1778, served three months as private in Capt. Leonard Bradley's Company, Col. John Williams Vermont Regiment."

Samuel Bristol is of the 5th generation from Henry Bristol who came from England. We have no record of the ancestors of Henry Bristol.

The derivation of the name as applied to the town of Bristol, Eng. is, according to Charnock in "Local Etymology" as follows: "Bristol formally Bricg Stow, Bric-stow; "Bristol from Angle-Saxon, bryo, a bridge, stow, a place or stol a seat (Bosworth). Some assert that its name was Caer Brito or Briton i. e., the British City, nigh to and just under the Roman City or station above Clifton * * *."

William Arthur in his "Etymological Dictionary of Family Christian Names" has another derivation, as follows: Bristol (Gaelic and Welsh). Local a city in England. The name signifies, "The broken chasm: from bris, Gaelic, broken and tull, Welsh tol, a hole, cleft or chasm. This corresponds to the ancient name of Bristol which was Caer Oder, i. e., the City Gap or Chasm through which the River Avon finds its way to the sea."

She was married to David Day in 1806 at Cooper's Falls by Esq. Cooper. The wedding tour was on horseback and the first wedding of the town. When Betsy heard the Indians were coming she took her two small children, the clothes she was washing and the unbaked bread and started for the central house where she stayed three days. David Day remained in DePeyster as a guard while other men went to Ogdensburg. He took his family along with two other families to Washington Co., until the trouble was over. Betsy died at age 94. Their children were Cynthia, Joshua, Chauncey, Asa, Lois, David, Jr., Angeline, Louisa, and Betsy

1. Cynthia married David Walker, 1827. They became members of the Methodist Church in 1842. He died in 1879. A gravestone in East Road Cemetery bears the inscription "Amana dau. of Asa and Edna Day died Mar. 10, 1863, age 1 yr., 11 mo." Another in the same cemetery reads: "David Day died Jan. 10, 1867. Aged 83 yrs., 1 mo, 4 da." Presumably Edna is buried on the same lot as many stones have been broken and thrown aside. On August 18, 1960, I paid a visit to this old cemetery in company with my brother and one of the local distant cousins.

5. Lois Day, born 1821; died 1887; married Burton Thornton, had eight children.

Sometime during the 1850's Curtis Bristol and most of his family left their old home in DePeyster and removed to Nebraska in the region of Hastings and Holdridge. They stopped in Winfield Twp., Indiana, to visit their daughter Emily C. who at this time was married to Miles Williams. Here Cutris died. The date is not known since the members of the family who knew are long since gone.

7. Martha Bristol was born about 1840 and died July 12, 1852. She was buried in the East Road Cemetery, out from De-Peyster, N. Y.

Rachel Phillips and husband had removed to Wisconsin sometime before 1840. Emily C. followed to teach school. There Emily met and fell in love with a young farmer to whom she was married.

She died May 9, 1856 in Winfield Twp. Lake Co., Ind.

Miles Williams, a young man from Plainfield, Otsego Co., N. Y., came to the community about 1843. Little is known of the Williams family history other than that they were more interested in horses, land and farming than any other pursuit. They were a hardy and thrifty people. The elements never held one of them back, if there was need to face storm and bad weather to go on an errand of mercy or urgent business it mattered not. They went. They were truly pioneer stock and seemed to enjoy pushing on. Keeping family records they left to the other fellow. For that reason it has been hard to gather data.

I. RAYMOND WILLIAMS, SR. lived to be 105 years old. Who his wife was we do not know. She may have been the Indian half-bred for all I know. My grand father Miles Williams, Sr., maintained that one of his male ancestors on the Williams line had married a half-freed Indian squaw. There were certain evidences of the Indian blood showing in a number of the members of several families such as stature, complexion and high cheek bones. Be that as it may the family lacked not for good American courage, and will to do.

The following children were born to them:

- III. 2. Miles, born Aug. 22, 1823, in Plainfield, Otsego Co., N. Y.

The first winter they lived in a log house on the "North Road" running into Crown Point, a half mile west of Dear Creek. The place was cold and rat infested. They were wakened one night by the screams of the infant, Pomroy; a rat had attacked the child and bit his finger. The next spring Miles bought land on the line of the "South Road" a mile south and about a mile and a half east of the first "Stopping Place." In this location the family was reared.

After the outbreak of the Civil War, young Pomroy and his father's young brother, Isaac, stole away in the night and went to Crown Point where they enlisted in the Union Army. Pomroy in Company M 12th Ind. Cavalry and Isaac in Company B 20th Reg. Indiana Volunteers. Pomroy came home on furlough in 1865 bringing a pair of gold ear rings. He told his sister, Jerusha, age three years she could have the ear rings if she would let him pierce her ears. It was a bargain and she held still and let him put the needle through each ear and put the rings in. After the war Pomroy stayed around home for four or five years then was overcome by the urge to move on toward the setting sun. He landed in Kansas where he found himself a wife.
